CROWNING CRIME.

An Attempt to Assassinate Mr. Goebel—Shot With a Winchester

WHILE ENTERING SENATE HALL.

Mr. Goebel was this morning shot by some unknown party just as he was entering the Senate Chamber. The party who did the shooting escaped. He was shot with a Winchester through the right lung and the extent of the wound is unknown. The party who did the shooting should be hung as high as Haman. This is the result of that murderous gang who have been lying around the Capital for weeks claiming to demand justice.

No State need no age can show a worse condition of affairs than have been instigated by Taylor and his gang of political chums. Mr. Goebel has kept in the limits of the law and the Republicans have assembled a lot of desperate men to intimidate and as above stated has resulted in a cool deliberate attempt to murder. We trust the wound will not prove fatal and that he will yet be Governor of Kentucky and show to the people of the State and nation that the combinations of corporations and Republicans cannot intimidate or throttle justice.

Gen. Butler meets a terrible defeat. He is driven across Tugela river and fifteen hundred British dead are left on Spion Kop's historic heights. Stupendous defeat that shakes the empire dealt by Gen. Joubert, whose victory saves the fate of Gen. White's brave thousands besieged in Ladysmith. For the first time, Boer soldiers attacked English entrenchments, and gloriously they proved their mettle.

The Republicans gained but little ground in the contest. They failed to establish the use of this ballot in Wolfe county, and Henry Coulter, the circuit clerk, testified to his belief that the alleged specimen ballot from Graves county was a forgery.

The argument in the gubernatorial contest opened yesterday. The attorneys were given six hours to a side. It is believed that a vote in joint session will not be taken before the 5th or 6th of February.

"Truth crashed to the ground will rise again."

Religion carried into politics finally falls in the first battle.

Mr. Roberts, of Utah, was turned out of Congress before he entered.

There is but little legislation going on at Frankfort, the many contests absorbing all interest.

While Frankfort has been crowded for the last few weeks, real estate has not advanced in that city.

Col. D. G. Colson is daily improving, and although he will be able to move about in a few days should he be granted bail.

The Democrats of the United States Senate held a conference, recently to discuss a party policy, but no general understanding was reached.

The one thousand Republicans who assembled at Frankfort last week effectually blasted Mr. Taylor's prospects to remain in the gubernatorial chair.

The error in the Whallen indictment was caused by one of the grand jurors taking sick while the testimony was being given and a new man had to be substituted.

Secretary Gage must be disgruntled about something. He said a few days ago that he believed the Democrats lack the English and sincerely hoped they would. Here is more treason in the McKinley camp, and Gage isn't Irish, either.

Gen. Joseph H. Lewis, ex-Chief Justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, a man whose opinion on a question of law is weighty and published an article last week on the contest that certainly opened the eyes of a good many men. He undertook to give the legal phase of the situation, and so he did to a finish. This same Judge stated two weeks ago that if the Republicans undertook to interfere with the civil authorities they would find themselves hopelessly in the minority.

Judge T. Z. Morrow is of the opinion that the trouble at Frankfort will be settled without any body being killed. He was holding court at Williamsburg last week and gave out this statement to his friends: "If the contest is decided in favor of the Democrats, there is nothing to do but to submit to the decision, as the contest is proceeding legally, and the constituted authorities must be obeyed." Judge Morrow is a recognized lawyer, a Republican, and no plausible doubt he has the opinion in this matter.

The Bowling Green Times says it has never had any very high opinion of Governor Taylor's ability, but has always considered him a man of strong common sense and a law abiding citizen. If he should for a moment entertain any other intention than that of submitting without a word to the lawful decision of a tribunal provided by the constitution of Kentucky for settling disputes, he would not deserve the respect of the inmates of the penitentiary, much less that of reputable citizens. Whatever decision the Legislature make will stand, whether it be in favor of Gov. Taylor or Senator Goebel, and we bet that that man who undertakes to thwart that decision.

Senator Lindsay, who has a national reputation as a constitutional lawyer, and who did not favor the election of Mr. Goebel, turns this search light on the situation at Frankfort: "The Legislature is the constitutional agent for determining the result of a gubernatorial election. If the Legislature reaches a conclusion which is wrong and unjust, the Republicans should, nevertheless, submit, because it is the law. If they do not submit, and Taylor attempts to hold the office of Governor, Goebel will simply have to say: 'Oh, well, it is inconvenient for me not to have the archives and the room and the seat, but I am Governor just the same.' So he may set up his office in a hotel, and start in as Governor of Kentucky. The Legislature will recognize him, and thus he will actually be Governor, while Taylor's pretensions, at first bordering upon tragedy, will soon become ridiculous."

The few Republicans of this section who participated in the great demonstration of Governor-making at Frankfort last week have returned to their peaceful homes with a full belief that said demonstration, though made by fully 1,000 Republicans, has not settled the matter. The fact is such proceedings will not do the Republicans any good. It was a mistake, and doubtless many of the participants now realize it. The contest has the sanction of the law and the Republicans have been given as much time to refute the claims of the contestants as the Democrats have had to prove them. They have able counsel—lawyers that would contend for the whole earth if they thought it would benefit their party and clients. The Legislature is the jury, and while it is Democratic we presume that the majority are men of ability and honor. Now, such demonstrations as assembling hundreds of Republicans, armed with deadly weapons, of every description, is no more than a threat to assassinate the entire Legislature, or so many representatives as may not concur to the demands of the Republicans. The moral effect of such an act on Legislators would be to put their vote on party lines. They are almost forced to do this or rest under the stigma of being intimidated by the Republicans. There was no necessity for such action and evidently has done no good and tends to lower the standing and dignity of the citizenship of this State. Already Kentucky stands high in the catalogue of feuds and crimes and such proceedings, as before stated, will do no good. The Republican leaders should fight within the limits of the law, and not try to excite the rank and file of their party to demonstrations of unbecoming and further soil the reputation of this State. The plan that Democrats—that Goebel is the cause of this disturbance will never be believed by intelligent people. The responsibility must rest where it belongs—on the Republican politicians.

The indictment against John Buckingham Whallen went out of court on demurrer with the understanding that the case be re-referred to the grand jury at the April term of the Franklin circuit court. Some men seem to have great sympathy for Whallen, and would be glad to see him released for all time to come. They claim that all men who take an interest in politics have been guilty of buying. Well, that may be true, but to our mind that does not excuse a man who has been indicted for bribery. It is not presumed that every citizen of the law will be discovered by the executive power of the Commonwealth and punished for the same, but it is the duty and should be expected that every thief caught should be punished, though a million rogues never be discovered; therefore, should a man bribe or threaten a juror, he should be prosecuted. Whallen is not the only man who attempted to bribe in the political arena that has been going on, but that should be no excuse or lessen the degree of the penalty.

The contest at Frankfort is in full bloom and proceeding according to law so far as the Democrats are concerned, but the Republican leaders are firing the rank and file of their adherents to a state of rebellion. The assertion "We won't submit if the Legislature decides in favor of Goebel," "Goebel will never act as governor if given the seat," he ought to be killed," forbodes no good, and indicates that Republicans must have their preference, or Democrats must die. Now is the time for calm deliberation, for should the hot headed element in the Republican party precipitate trouble there will be mourning in the land. There is as much true grit in a Kentucky Democrat as the average Republican possesses, and will stand stronger numerically and financially.

We understand that the Marshalls made a raid in the western part of this county one night last week and arrested two of our citizens. The parties were at work when the officers arrived.

Trade has been unusually good in this section for the past week or so. Messrs. Hardesty & Bridgewater, of Lebanon, were with us for a few days last week buying at a good price. They bought from Smith & Nell 70 head of sheep and 6 head of cattle for $40. Smith & Nell sold to A. Huns, Columbia, 7 head of cattle at an average of $70; also 22 head of cattle to J. C. Durham, Campbellville, for $447.50.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature to do its work. The proprietor has so much faith in its curative power, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the Union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventative and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher, of Liberty, Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for many years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by Mr. Graves.

Last Thursday evening at 4 o'clock, Mrs. Annie Blackford, wife of James Blackford, departed this life to the better world above. She had been sick only ten days with typhoid fever, and was thought she would soon be well again, but God saw best and called her from this world of trouble to a better beyond. The deceased was about 32 years old, and was a consistent member of the Methodist church. She was married to James Blackford Jan. 6th, 1884 at her home in Casey county, and had made many warm friends since she removed to this place, who regretted to give her up. She was a devoted wife, a loving mother and a splendid neighbor. She leaves a husband and one child and the host of friends to mourn her loss. The interment took place at Salem, Casey county, Wednesday evening. Mr. Blackford tender his thanks to the friends and neighbors who assisted him in the sickness of both his wife and brother J. Blackford, who also had typhoid fever at the same time.

Death of Sam F. Barbee.

Last Saturday morning about 6:30 o'clock residents of Greenburg street were alarmed by hearing distressing screams coming from the home of Mr. F. Barbee, and the people at once rushed to the scene. Mr. Barbee was dead. He was occupying an upstairs room, and on Friday he went about the house saying he felt tolerably well. His father, brothers and sister have been watchful of his condition for several weeks, and while it was known he was seriously afflicted, his death was unexpected at the time. He died alone, and the end must have come between midnight and 1 o'clock a. m., as his feet and body were cold when first discovered. He was lying on the bed when first discovered, and it is believed that he attempted to get up and fall over dead.

The deceased was the oldest son of Mr. A. R. Barbee, and was born and reared in Columbia. He was a friend to every body, and every body had the warmest regard for him. He was 41 years old last November and was unmarried. For a number of years he had been the proprietor of the stage line between this place and Campbellville, and was universally liked by the traveling public.

When the news of this death spread over Columbia there was a unanimous expression of sorrow, every body speaking of his many good traits of character.

The funeral services were held at the residence 230 Sunday afternoon, conducted by Eld. Z. T. Williams. The service was very disagreeable, but a great many relatives and friends attended. The interment was in the city cemetery.

Poace to him who was peaceable, amiable, and who died without an enemy. During his whole life he was never heard to speak evil of any man. The New Year with the community in extending sympathy to the surviving members of the family.

Bridges in Sight.

Mr. H. H. Spain, representing the Chambers Bridge Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, was in Columbia last week for the purpose of estimating the cost of two bridges, one to cross Russell's creek at Milltown, the other to span Green river, either at Plum Point or Old Nottville.

In company with Judge J. W. Butler and County Attorney Jas. Garnett, Jr., all the points were visited, but no definite conclusion was reached as to cost, as the calculations will have to be made at the estimated cost. Enough, however, was learned that a bridge at Old Nottville could be built for about $1,000 cheaper than at Plum Point.

Mr. Spain will return to Cleveland, make up the estimates and then return to be submitted to the County Court at the April term. In the meantime the County Judge and County Attorney will see how much money can be raised by private subscription, in order that the Court may understand the amount the county will have to pay should a contract be entered into for the bridges.

These bridges are very much needed and we trust the county will do the best for the estimated cost. If the estimates are reasonable, we understand the people will subscribe liberally. It is also said that liberal donations will be made by the Green river people.

One of the best county officials in the State is Hon. W. T. Sharp, who is the County Judge of Russell county.

He received his position by appointment a few months ago, and a more careful and watchful Judge is not to be found. He is a business man of fine ability and is extremely agreeable with every one who calls at his office. It is certainly a source of much gratification to the citizens of Russell county to have such a competent, honest and courteous gentleman to look after their interest. Burdenome taxation often works a hardship upon the poor, but with Mr. Sharp as the County Judge and Librarian Phelps as the County Attorney, the people need not have any fears.

There has been a change in the dry goods establishment at Mountpelier. Mrs. Ellen B. Wheat takes the interest owned by her late husband. No change is made in the style of the firm—Wheat & Williams. Mr. Luther Williams, who is an excellent business man, is the manager, and Mr. Albert Epperson, a very popular gentleman, is the clerk. Financially there is no change in the firm in the county than Wheat & Williams.

The following indictments were returned by the last grand jury, classified as follows: Seduction, 2; breaking into a store, 1; grand larceny, 1; petty larceny, 1; malicious cutting, 2; selling liquor, 2; disturbing worship, 8; gaming, 2; receiving stolen money, 1; malicious striking, 1; breach of the peace, 1; malicious weapons, 1; disorderly house, 1; giving liquor to a minor, 10; adultery, 4; big stealing, 1; false swearing, 2; unlawfully collecting toll, 1.

The main business of Circuit Court was brought to a finish last Wednesday. During the remainder of the week Judge Jones disposed of a few equity cases in which but little money was involved. Saturday afternoon the negro boys who were convicted for the penitentiary were sentenced, and on Monday they were carried to prison by Sheriff J. W. Hurt and S. H. Mitchell.

Mr. J. H. Young, who is a prominent farmer and trader of this county, has just returned from the Georgia market. He was in the South sixty days, and during that time he handled five carloads of mules. He was in a good section of the State, and he informs us by letter that he did fairly well, as good as he expected. Adair county has no better citizen than Mr. Young, and his friends throughout the county will be glad to learn that he met with success.

The firm of Page & Powell dissolved the first day of January by mutual consent. Dr. Page will continue the drug business at the same stand. All parties indebted to the old firm are requested to call and settle. Also all persons indebted to J. N. Page are requested to fork over what they owe him.

Josephus Cloyd and Teck Cook, two colored men, got into a difficulty in the suburbs of Campbellville last Sunday morning, and the latter was shot and killed. One of the darkeys was running a blind dog, and it is reported of him that liquor was the cause of the trouble. About two months ago a negro named Buckner was killed in a drunken quarrel at the same place.

This month's receipts of cattle at Chicago will be the largest January receipts in over five years, or since 1894. For the first two weeks of the month there was a gain of over 2,000 compared with a year ago. The total for the entire month will probably reach about 24,000, against only 191,544 last January and 377,715 last month of 1899.

THE MIND OF THE MOB.

People Who Think All on One Pile Chance.

Some one has said that if a gun were placed on Sandy Hook with a guarantee that one man out of every 10,000 consenting to be fired from its muzzle would survive and at once become a millionaire, while the other 9,999 would perish, applications for places in the gun would be filled years ahead and the gun would be kept hot from continuous firing.

The author of this statement might have omitted the guarantee. The only assurance needed to collect a mob of applicants would be the unguaranteed statement on flaming posters that the ten thousandth man would live and be a millionaire. Thinking of the joys of the millionaire, the mob would not stop to investigate the truth or falsity of the statement. It would not consider the great odds. It would merely say: "How nice if I should come out alive. How fine if I should become a millionaire."

For a concrete example of this characteristic of the mob mind one need only look at the recent epidemic of fake banking schemes exposed in New York city. Notably the pioneer among these was a "syndicate," the head of which offered to pay 500 per cent. interest on deposits. He offered no security. Good judgment said such interest could not be paid, and the wiser ones knew that it would bankrupt the nation of the earth. Yet that strange trait of mob mind would send men flocking to be fired out of the hypothetical cannon brought them to the "syndicate" in question. They saw nothing but the desirability of the few percent of the impossible promise. If they stopped to ask: "Can he really pay it?" they answered their own question: "But how fine if he only can! What if he could?"

One saw exhibited the same strange phase of mind which sends men to the wild-eyed Indian doctor with his long hair and his flaming posters which announce a mysterious cure-all revealed to the world by the "Squaw Medicine" at her death. It was the phase of mind which makes men play games where the odds are all with the house, which impels them to commit crime when they know exposure, disgrace and capture will follow.

Common sense, experience and mathematics all unite in saying: "Don't do it; the thing is impossible." But the mob mind answers back: "How fine if it should come out all right." Then the step is taken.

There is only one conclusion. The mob mind bases its belief not upon reason, but upon desire. It desires to believe that marvelous results will follow a certain investment, that miraculous recovery will come from the medicines of a quack, that escape from the consequences of crime is possible; and, desiring, it believes; and, believing, it acts.—Louis Lillard, Jr., in Saturday Evening Post.

IS YOUR CLOCK RIGHT?

Some Observations Suggested by Frequently Repeated Query.

"One of the things I have learned in the course of my experience," said the middle-aged man, "is that people don't like to have you ask: 'Is your clock right?' This is a question that we put to a great many people, and it is more or less annoying to most of them. I have seen men resent it with a stare, though that would be something unusual; but, as a rule, most men think well of their clocks, and they resent the question more or less in their heart if they don't in word or manner.

"Doesn't every man think his own watch is a good timekeeper? He does. It may be a cheap watch that cost ten dollars, or five dollars, or one dollar, but he thinks it's a good one. All cheap watches are better nowadays than they used to be, but each man thinks he's got the still remarkable exceptional watch that really is a wonder. And the clock owner thinks the same of his clock. Whether it's in the jewelry store, the bakery or the butcher's, they all resent the question: 'Is your clock right?'"

"The question implies in some vague, indefinite way the idea of an assumption of superiority on the part of the questioner, for does it not suggest inferiority, at least on the part of the other man's clock? And no man likes it. My conclusion is that nobody should ask the question; if, not at all, in fact, unless something really allows upon it. But if it really should be really a matter of importance for you to know, then you may ask, and this time you'll find the question will not be resented."—N. Y. Sun.

PRINTING WITHOUT INK.

New Use to Which Electricity Will Soon Be Put.

The English trade papers have within the past six months devoted considerable space to the discussion of printing without ink, a subject which has engaged the interest of all who have considered it. The scheme is an invention for printing by an electrical process, the patents covering which have been acquired by an English corporation.

From what can be gathered from the various printed accounts, the printing by this method is effected without the use of ink in any form by simply bringing the plate in contact with chemically dampened paper, linen, silk, wood or other material, the result being a good, clear impression, the density of which can be varied as desired. The print obtained is in itself a suitable printing surface, and may be used in a similar way, merely coming into contact with the dampened paper to form the print.

The chemical additions to the paper make it susceptible of the electric current, and are added to the pulp, and are said to be so cheap as to cause no appreciable increase in cost. The paper does not deteriorate by keeping in stock, and can be supplied to the printer in the usual form of flat sheets and in reek. It is the intention of the patentees to grant licenses on moderate terms to paper-makers, so that there will be no necessity for changing the usual source of supply. The saving to those who adopt electrical printing will be, primarily, in the cost of the ink and in time and labor.

It is claimed that all printing presses now in use can be adapted to a small cost, for electrical inkless printing. The only changes will be to leave off the rollers and all movable parts of the inking arrangements, fit a thin sheet of fine rolled tin around the cylinder as a conductor, and connect the negative and positive poles from the electrical supply of the press, and it is ready to print. The same electric motor that drives the printing press will also supply the current for printing.—Publishers' Weekly.

A Village in Three Counties.

PEAT BOGS IN SWEDEN.

Awful Inevitable Deaths Who Will Have Them.

Mr. H. Stenmetz, engineer in the department of agriculture in Sweden, recently gave an interesting lecture on the manner in which peat is utilized in Sweden, where coarse cloth of good quality and cheap paper is made from peat fiber. He pointed out the fact that the peat bogs in Sweden, many of them eight to ten yards deep, cover an area of about 8,648,000 acres. A peat factory employing 100 men would consume yearly, he said, a peat-bog area of about 15 acres, to the depth of 14 or 2 yards. Even if the supply from 24 acres could be raised yearly by such a factory there would be enough peat for an industry employing 100,000 men for from 3,000 to 4,000 years. The Swedish manufacturers of papers do not believe the paper can be made from peat, but the Swedish manufacturers have proved that it can be done.

make paper, as well as durable mats, quilts, blankets and surgical bandages. The forests here and elsewhere have lately from the encroachments of the pulp and paper industry, therefore it would be a source of great economical advantage if this industry could use peat instead of wood. There have been efforts here to make a kind of charcoal out of peat, but without any practical results, because the method used was too expensive. It is certain, however, that a respectable fortune awaits the inventive genius who can find out an economical way to utilize the peat bogs in Sweden whether the contents of some ancient mine in paper, cloth or a substitute for coal.—Chicago Record.

Destroying Old Railway Stock.

A simple method of getting rid of superfluous obsolete railway rolling stock has been adopted at a foundry in Michigan where a large number of cars were received from a railway company. The only part of the cars worth saving was the metal, and the problem was to separate it from the timber at small cost. Two inclines were built, and two trains of cars were released at the top of the incline and allowed to slide down. But if it really should be really a matter of importance for you to know, then you may ask, and this time you'll find the question will not be resented."—N. Y. Sun.

A Dog Trained by Thieves. A mastiff was trained to assist thieves in Paris. It was in the habit of bounding against old gentlemen and knocking them over in the street. "A lady" and "gentleman"—owners of the dog—would then step forward to assist the unfortunate pedestrian to rise, and while doing so would ease him of his watch and purse.

A CHEMICAL PENCIL.

Interpreting Experiment That Will Furnish an Evening's Amusement. Here is a chemical experiment any boy or girl may try, which is entertaining, inexpensive and without danger.

Take a saturated solution of nitrate of potash (saltpeter) and with a quill pen or fine brush draw any picture, design or words upon a piece of white absorbent paper. The lines should be well separated and the entire subject coarsely drawn in outline. When dry the lines will be nearly invisible, but if one of them be touched with the glowing end of an extinguished match a spark of fire will run through the paper, following the lines already traced, and cutting out the design as with an invisible knife.

This experiment is explained by the chemical constitution of the saltpeter. The salt contains a large amount of oxygen, so loosely combined that it readily leaves the nitrogen and potash and unites with the carbon of the paper when heated to the point of ignition. The heat developed by the combustion is not sufficient to ignite the paper, except where it has been saturated with the oxygen-giving salt; and so the spark of fire, which is really only an indication of a violent chemical reaction, follows the lines previously traced. If an actual flame was brought in contact with the paper, of course the whole would be consumed; but the heat of the glowing charcoal is just sufficient to start the combustion by the aid of the oxygen in the saltpeter.—Golden Days.

The gymnast work alone would hardly account for the improved physical condition of college women, but taken in connection with the system of rational athletics which prevails at almost all these institutions it has made a noble record.

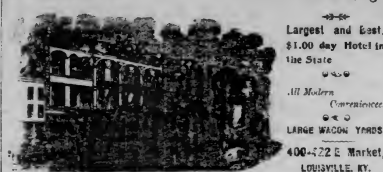

The time may come, if, in fact, it is not already here, when instead of fearing that the daughter of the family will be broken down by overstudy and graduate with a mental equipment gained at the expense of a weakened body, she will be sent to one of these institutions as much to strengthen her physique as to improve her mind. Bicycling, swimming, skating, tennis, golf, basketball, boating and other forms of healthful out-of-door exercise that keeps the muscles firm and the nervous system active are working wonders on the present generation of young women, and this influence is extending out from the colleges and having its influence upon less pretensions educational institutions and upon the social life generally.

We are inclined to think that the women's colleges furnish the most rational athletics that is to be seen anywhere, and that the men's colleges might accept pointers from the Over-the-hill students is avoided, and the ambition of the students is satisfied with well-developed physiques and abounding health. They do not strain up to the heart disease point. They do not strive for abnormal results. They lay the foundations for splendid womanhood, instead of discounting the future by overtraining. In other words, they are preparing for a vigorous life instead of a football game.—Boston Transcript.
